Information for diabetic guests

Cozy Kitties Inn accepts diabetic guests as long as they are under veterinarian care and receiving treatment either orally, are insulin dependent or have been determined by their veterinarian to be in remission. We only accept diabetics that are stable/well controlled and have received a “doctor’s note” stating he/she is healthy enough to visit. We prefer to receive the doctor’s note at least 3-5 days prior to check in. Unfortunately, we cannot care for newly diagnosed diabetics.

For our diabetic guests, we require the following:

1. A letter from your cat’s veterinarian stating he/she is stable/well controlled and is healthy enough to be boarded at least 3-5 days prior to check-in.
2. For our insulin dependent guests, we need the amount of insulin to be administered, the frequency and enough syringes for a single-time use for the duration of the stay. We only administer insulin as prescribed by a veterinarian and as indicated on the original container, or in a note from your veterinarian stating the amount of insulin to administer. We do not make the clinical decision of increasing or decreasing insulin dosage.
3. Please provide extra insulin and syringes in case your trip is extended by a few days.
4. We will work with you to accommodate your cat’s medication schedule. Please provide a written schedule.
5. Insulin transportation: Pack insulin so it is kept cool while you travel to us; we will pack it to stay cool for your drive home. Placing ice in a baggie and then in a plastic container works well.
6. If your cat has special dietary needs, please provide us written instructions. It is especially helpful for us to know about any treats or food your cat finds irresistible, and please pack along any of these irresistible morsels so we are “treat ready”! Treats and irresistible foods help to stimulate your cat’s hunger – good to know if they have difficulty eating.

If you have any questions, please ask!

I accept this policy.
